

ANTARCTICA EXPEDITION TEAM

Iain Miller

Iain is a project director who has over 20 years of experience in Antarctic operations, projects and logistics. Iain managed operations for New Zealand's National Antarctic Program and co-established a successful business providing Helicopter support to national Antarctic programs in Antarctica's Ross Sea.

Dr. Vonda Cummings

Vonda is a marine ecologist who has spent her career studying the amazing creatures that live on the seafloor. Her many research expeditions to the Antarctic have investigated how these unique communities can survive and thrive in the extreme cold and dark, and how this could change in a future climate.

FEATURED PRESENTERS

Dr. Michael Douglas

Dr. Douglas is a retired NOAA (National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration) research meteorologist who worked for 22 years at the National Severe Storms Laboratory in Norman, Oklahoma. Although most of his research focused on aspects of tropical weather and climate, some of his early research involved studies of winter storms over high latitude oceans. In addition to his graduate degrees (MS and PhD) in Meteorology, his undergraduate degree in Geophysics provided a background in the geological sciences. He has worked, as part of NOAA research, in many countries in Latin America and Africa, and has also traveled widely for personal interests, with a focus on natural history subjects (e.g., geology, botany, zoology). He is a member of the American Meteorological Society and serves on the education committee of the International Biogeography Society.

Dr. Jim Jacobs

Dr. Jim Jacobs is a geologist/naturalist, author, and science lecturer who brings Earth's dramatic stories to life, from glaciers and earthquakes to volcanic eruptions. A PhD scientist and four-time Fulbright Senior Scholar, he has worked as an Arctic oil geologist, co-founded a successful environmental consulting firm, and served as an expert witness in 24 environmental court cases. He has been a cruise lecturer since 2007, delivering destination-focused talks tailored to the ship's itinerary and ports of call. Jim is a Research Fellow at the University of California, Santa Cruz, and a Fellow of both the Geological Society of London and the National Ground Water Association. He has co-written five environmental science books.

GUEST CHEF

Fernanda Tabares

Fernanda Tabares was born in Buenos Aires where she grew up within a family coming from Spanish and Italian ancestors who loved home-made food. As a child, she was always fascinated by the aromas in the kitchen, which later led her into discovering her interest in gastronomy. Since then, she has never stopped learning about all kinds of cuisines and wines to return to the Argentinian cuisine at its best.
